Inmate At York County Detention Center Found Dead Identified, Death Not Related To COVID-19

YORK COUNTY, S.C. — An inmate at the York County Detention Center was found dead on Friday.

Around 1:15 p.m. on March 27th, the man who was identified as 41-year-old Gerald Voit was found unresponsive. Emergency Medical Services were called to the detention center to attempt CPR and first aid, but Voit was not able to resuscitated.

SLED says there is no sign of foul play and that the death is not related to Coronavirus.

The York County Sheriff's Office charged Voit last month.

As routine protocol – SLED investigates when an in-house inmate passes away.

CN2 News

- Local News
- Politics
- Sports

CN2 Today

CN2 Xtra

- City Minute
- HSF "GAME OF THE WEEK"
- Real Estate Show

Special Segments

- 2 Your Health
- Athlete of the Week
- Business Spotlight
- Carolina Connection
- CN2 at the Movies
- Hometown Hero
- Picture of the Day
- Shop Local

ADVERTISEMENT

Inmate found dead in cell at York County Detention Center

20-year-old Leo Santiago Chavez convicted. (Source: Raycom images)

By WBTV Web Staff

Published: Apr. 6, 2020 at 12:35 PM EDT

YORK COUNTY, S.C. (WBTV) - An inmate was found dead at the York County Detention Center.

Gerald Voit, 41, from Hickory Grove, was found dead in his cell.

No foul flay is suspected.

SLED and the York County Coroner's Office are investigating.

Copyright 2020 WBTV. All rights reserved.

Seeing At Age 64 Scott Valentine From Family Ties Will Make You Skip Lunch

SportPirate | Sponsored

Family Finds Gold Nugget Worth $35K While Walking Dog Named 'Lucky'

Express Life Feeds | Sponsored